About:

The Art of Teaching

“As a piano teacher, I am keen on sharing my knowledge and experiences, I am open to musicians of all levels, and work reliably with warm respect. Within the past few years of a teaching practice, I realized how important it is to encourage the imagination of students and allow them to fully appreciate the unique connection between music and fantasy. Thanks to my special guidance and exercises, while playing, my students revive emotions and narrate stories that are close to their hearts.”

Me as a Teacher

“Piano Lessons that capture your heart

Guidance that captivates your fantasy”

I work with private students of all levels and ages, from children to adults and beginners to advanced players. By adjusting my lessons to the individual needs of each student, I create a safe space where music comes alive.

The core value of my method is not only to develop the technique but also to build a unique connection between music and fantasy.

Biography

Rozálie Stoklasová is a Czech piano teacher, educator, and performer, currently based in the Netherlands. As her main passion is teaching, she focuses on working with international students within the private sphere, and in 2025, she started giving lessons at the Junior Conservatorium Maastricht. By virtue of certified training, her lessons stand for creativity, empathy, and individual guidance that encourages pupils' imagination. As a pianist, she gained a wide range of professional experiences that are an appropriate source of her pedagogical know-how.

Rozálie has always been interested in teaching, as she admired the art of giving a well-structured, inspiring piano lesson. During her studies, she successfully completed specialized training in "Advanced teaching skills," obtaining a Teaching Certificate and approving knowledge from psychology, didactics, and piano pedagogy. She works with private students of all levels and ages, from children to adults and beginners to advanced players. Outside the privated sphere, she teaches at the Junior Department of the Conservatorium Maastricht, guiding a class of young, classically trained musicians. By adjusting her lessons to the individual needs of each student, she creates a safe space where music comes alive. The core value of her lesson is not only to develop the technique but also to build a unique connection between music and fantasy.

As an actively performing pianist, Rozálie gained many experiences within the music industry approving her ability to perform with distinctive touch, technical skills, and colorful expressivity. She participated, among others, in the "Samson Francois International Piano Competition 2024". In the same year, she won the "IAFM Köln Award" in "The IAFM Cologne International Piano Competition 2024", where the jury appraised her precise differentiation of various musical styles. During the years 2018-2022, she was awarded first prizes in the "Art-Duo Music Festival" held in famous European cities such as Copenhagen, Berlin, Madrid, and Vienna. As a young talent won Rozálie second prize in the Czech international competition "Amadeus" and first prize in the "Virtuosi per Musica di Pianoforte International Competition". She also became a two-time first prize-winner in "Prague Junior Note Piano Competition". As a child, she was awarded as absolute prize-winner in the "Pro Bohemia Piano Competition".

In April 2026 Rozálie made her debut as a solo pianist in the Muziekgebow Eindhoven. Furthermore, in the same year, she cooperated with Greek pianist Vasileios Gavvaris at a joint concert in Theater ann het Vrijthof in Maastricht. During her studies in the Netherlands, she had an opportunity to take part in various festivals and events such as Moving Music Festival, Night and Day of Classical Music, Opus 16 Concerts, Chamber Music Festival and others. She also performed at local venues, e.g., De Bombardon in Heythuysen, Leopoldskerkje in Meerssen, Limburgzaal in Heerlen, Pentagoon Academy in Tongeren (Belgium), or Koepelkerkapel in Maastricht.

Additional activities have included work with several chamber music ensembles. For example, a piano trio or an unusual formation of piano and two classical saxophones. Currently, is Rozálie a member of Trio Dell´Arte together with oboe and english horn. Her ensemble focuses mainly on baroque repertoire and pieces by the German composer Max Bruch. The latest formed ensemble is Trio Amabile, a beautiful combination of oboe, viola, and piano. Rozálie gained experience also in four-hand piano repertoire and accompaniment. She currently works as a accompanist of Donna Voce vocal ensemble, a female choir based in Wahlwiller. Beyond her musical background, worth mentioning is her several years of employment in the service area of the National Theatre in Prague.

Next to her career as teacher, Rozálie Stoklasová is currently studying for a master's in classical piano at the Conservatorium Maastricht under the guidance of Dr. Katia Veekmans. She successfully completed her bachelor's degree in 2026 with a specialization in piano pedagogy and acquired a Teaching Certificate. As for her prior education, in 2022, she completed an eight-year program at the Prague Secondary School of Music ("Gymnázium a Hudební škola hl. m. Prahy") as a member of a special music class led by Prof. Irina Parker. She obtained her Secondary Education Diploma and graduated with a final solo recital. Before that, she spent four years at the Music School "ZUŠ Nový Jičín", studying under piano teacher Timea Sarina. Rozálie began her piano education at the age of four at "ZUŠ Rožnov pod Radhoštěm" with piano teacher Markéta Hauserová.

In order to develop her musical skills, Rozálie attended masterclasses with prominent pianists and teachers. In 2024, she was chosen as a piano-class representative at the masterclass of a Russian pianist Mikhail Voskresensky. The following year, she attended "D´Accord Academy" in Germany, where she took lessons with Czech pianist Bohumír Stehlík. In 2022, she participated in the "International Forum for Flute and Piano" in Luxembourg, working with American pianist Prof. Daniel Blumenthal. At a young age, she participated in Masterclasses with Czech pianist Martin Kasík.

Surrounded by an international environment in the Netherlans, she had an opportunity to deepen her knowledge of languages. She obtained a C1 ESOL language certificate and intends to qualify as an English teacher, offering coaching for musicians on a specialised music-related vocabulary or conversations for foreign students who tend to study in Europe.

Spending her childhood in the homely town Rožnov pod Radhoštěm and experiencing her teenage years in Prague, the capital of the Czech Republic, shaped Rozálie's unique personality. The cultural diversity she tasted within her home country inspired her to devote herself to musical education in the Netherlands. The guidance of professional teachers led her to explore teaching as a new passion. She strives to teach intensively after her studies, providing lessons and masterclasses, and popularizing classical music with a wider audience. Her vision is to encourage the imagination of her students and allow them to fully appreciate the unique connection between music and fantasy.

By sharing her knowledge as a teacher, she believes in raising independent, open musicians who create music that is truly meaningful.
